

NARATIVE ESSAY ABOUT PARASAILING

Narative essay about parasailing - essay example for free â€¦ Newyorkessays - database with more than college essays for studying â€œ

Articles you might enjoy. I opted to try parasailing simply because I felt it was an opportunity that I couldn't pass, although even up to the last seconds before being lifted I still doubted my ability to remain calm. Equipment is rather expensive, but if you are really passionate you can exploit it a lot because there are so many place where you can just pick up your bag and go for a flight. The other passengers were filled with excitement giving an ease to a decision I was a little apprehensive about having. Learn to surf and beach holidays will never be the same! I felt scared, almost terrified as the screams of my nightmare echoed in my ears and made my head throb. Since our parasail was secured to a speed boat, the driver of the boat had full control of how fast and how high we ended up going. Trying new things is always something exciting I like to do. My grandmother was worried about breaking her hip again. At first I was nervous about the news, but then the more I thought about it the more excited and happier I got. I found out that most of the incidents happen when the towline breaks. I could see some much that was below me. I met a lot of people in my life and all of them were different. Nobody has that. As she made her way to the front of the deck you could see her hands shaking violently. It only rained a couple of times in the evening for approximately 10 min. While we rode along the water we hit many bumps in the waves, throwing us up into the air like bouncy balls. In truth I dealt with my fears in a less conventional way, but I came out with a valuable lesson, which is to never second guess myself and to truly believe that I can accomplish whatever I set my mind on. Can you hug or kiss your partner discreetly? By kind of combining the descriptive and emotions you give yourself the ability to show your writing and your experience and let the readers experience. The hardest part was that I had to convince someone who is afraid of heights and water to go parasailing with me yes, I am talking about my boyfriend. Just a few steps running down the hill and we were in the air! Even though they know the drill, you still need to make sure that everything will be alright up there. The storm I witnessed was Hurricane Sandy. I made my way to the front of he boat and sat down on the deck so he could hook the parachute to my harness. I could see giant sea turtles and I even saw a shark. If laying on the beach all day is not your idea of a perfect getaway, add some thrill to your escapade. On the way down they dunked her into time was a blast; from going to the office, to riding in a boat for the first time, or being so high in the air, each aspect was amazing. There are some aspects you need to consider beforehand. A plus was the entire time on the boat us passengers got to listen to rock music on the radio. Snapshots from the Flight Here are some shots from my flight!! The color of the Cheez-It box is red, white, orange, yellow, and black. Even though all the above may sound boring, trust me when say that it is not. That is the parasail wing. By Celestine Chua Hi everyone!! It made the world feel tiny, given that everything and everyone was just beneath my feet. The family has visited numerous places throughout the United States, however, none are as memorable as Atlanta, Georgia. Maybe a second trial, to see if I would feel more confident!